A short time after the family illness may

to yield reins

HAVANA (AP) — One of Fidel Castro's doctors said today the Prime Minister needs

"absolute rest—both physical and mental."

The statement by Maj. Raul Trillo, an army doctor treating Castro, was published in the semi-official newspaper Revolution.

It reported Castro is convalescing but said "now we have to build him up after his illness."

"Treatment with antibiotics ended a week ago Trillo's statement said, "and now he is on a treatment of absolute rest with a good diet and vitamins to recover rapidly and completely."

Castro's continuing illness has generated growing speculation that he may yield control of his government—at least temporarily —to his Yankee-hating brother

Raul, once described by Fidel as even more radical than himself.

Government-controlled radio stations broke their ban on Sunday newscasts to report that the Prime Minister — only 13 days away from his 34th birthday—is "still convalescing" despite official reports two weeks ago that he had recovered fully.

The surprise announcement said

Castro now is "improving satisfactorily." It did not say what he was suffering from.

After he was stricken July 9, army doctors said Castro had a

lung. This was generally interpreted to mean pneumonia. But speculation that his trip might be there have been rumors of a more serious illness, including a suggestion major surgery would be necessary.

Dr. Antonio Rodriguez Diaz, who has been treating the Prime Minister, was reported by his aides out of the country on professional business. There was speculation that his trip might be in connection with Castro's illness.

One rumor said Castro would go to Moscow for treatment.

Castro's last public appearance was at the 7th anniversary celebration of his 26th of July revolutionary movement in eastern Cu-bana. He looked haggard and worn.

Maj. Raul Castro, minister of the armed forces, returned Saturday from a European trip that took him to the Soviet Union and a meeting with Premier Nikita

Khrushchev, Czechoslovakia and the United Arab Republic.

Raul denied published reports that he cut short his trip and hurried back because of his brother's illness.

Katanga Compromise Sought

Dag Intervenes to End Congo Dispute

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold delayed his departure from the Congo by 24 hours today as he sought a compromise in the bitter dispute over the future of rich Katanga province.

Hammarskjold sent his top African expert, Hans Wiershoff, to Brussels, Belgium to confer with the Belgian government.

The secretary-general resisted pressure from the Congolese Cabinet for U. N. forces to move immediately against secessionist Katanga.

The U. N. Command announced Belgian soldiers had pulled out of three more towns—Banningville, Libengi and Coquilhatville, all in Equator province—but so far have made no move to leave Katanga.

It was not learned whether the withdrawn soldiers were being sent to Belgium or to the two Belgian military bases in the Congo. The Congo government is challenging the right of the Belgians to keep these bases.

Brussels announced last week that 1,500 of the 10,000 Belgian soldiers in the Congo would be brought home. These are to be flown to Belgium in the next few days.

A Belgian spokesman said except for Katanga and the bases of Kikona and Kamina, only about 500 Belgian soldiers are stationed in the Congo's other five provinces.

These include but 100 in Kasai province, where Belgian sources say fierce tribal warfare has broken out between the Lulua and Baluba tribes.

A Belgian spokesman said the entry of N. forces into Katanga must be effected gradually after thorough psychological preparation of the thousands of Belgians in the province to prevent new panic at the prospect of the withdrawal of the Belgian soldiers.

About 60 Belgian soldiers in Leopoldville province will withdraw to the Kivu base. Some 300 are still on station in Kivu province, holding on until the Irish battalion is in position. Forty-five Belgian soldiers are still in Oriental province, at Bana, but Ethiopian soldiers are gradually taking hold. The fifth province, Equator, is free of Belgian soldiers.

No nation has recognized Katanga's proclamation of independence from the federal Congo government. The breakdown of the rich province—if it sticks—would intensify the acute economic crisis already facing the month-old African nation.

Cong Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga charge in a weekend speech that the U. N. forces had fallen down on the job and had permitted "secession to consolidate" in Katanga.

Hammarskjold sharply replied: "We cannot adopt the line of action which in our minds would not correspond with our re-

Congress May Fight On Rights

Time-Limit Wanted In Post-Rally Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress may run into a squabble over civil rights legislation when it convenes for its post-convention session.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., served notice Sunday he will introduce a bill containing main provisions of the Republican Party's civil rights plank when the Senate goes back to work a week from today. The House meets Aug. 15.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, predicted civil rights legislation might be introduced and said he wouldn't be surprised if it would touch off a Southern filibuster.

But Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, GOP national chairman, made it clear he wants the session to steer away from what he called any ambitious or time-consuming measures.

Morton said Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican minority leader, shared his view on a limited agenda.

Democratic leaders have not included civil rights legislation in their plans for the session.

Javits said the new leaders in both parties should act as soon as possible to implement the civil rights program.

Merchant Trips One of Nation's Worst Criminals

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A small town merchant's interest in FBI "wanted circulars" led to the jailing of one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals, an escaped murderer who lived quietly as a farm laborer.

Smith Gerald Hudson, 32, a convicted Pennsylvania killer, was brought to Omaha Sunday night and jailed to await arrival of Pennsylvania authorities.

Hudson was arrested early Sunday in the small house he occupied on the Carl Huefue farm near Cozad, Neb. Taken before a U. S. commissioner, he waived preliminary hearing and was held in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Hudson, who used an alias of Gerald Bennett, refused at first to make a statement. Later he told of falling in love and embracing Christ "for the first time in my life."

Glendon Maline, operator of a chain store at Cozad, looked over some FBI circulars last week and spotted a picture that looked familiar. He thought it was Bennett, with whom he did business, and it was.

Hudson escaped from the Pennsylvania State Penitentiary at Bellefonte Aug. 2, 1957 after "I had served six years of a 10-to-20 year term and had only four to go."

"All the time I never had a card or letter or visit from my

Nixon, Others Meet to Map Out Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon plunged back into the presidential campaign today. He gathered together his running mate and political strategists to map out a course aimed at the White House.

After a day of comparative rest, Nixon arranged to meet with U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge — the Republican vice presidential nominee — and close associates to develop campaign plans.

No time limit was set on the session, called for mid-morning at a downtown hotel. Nixon wanted as many hours as necessary to discuss the general theme of his campaign, to set up at least a preliminary schedule of speaking dates and places and to assign his personnel to various responsibilities.

Lodge was asked to attend the meeting to contribute his ideas and shape the role he will play later. Lodge is expected to be a noncombatant politically for the next month while he presents the Eisenhower administration's views on disarmament to the United Nations.

Leonard W. Hall, Nixon's general campaign manager, and Robert H. Finch, the vice president's administrative assistant, headed the inner group of advisers summoned to the conference.

Nixon already has made clear he intends to campaign without wasting an hour. After only two days in Washington, he and Mrs. Nixon take off Tuesday morning for a swift tour to the Pacific Coast and beyond. They will stop at Reno, Nev., Los Angeles and Whittier, Nixon's home town, in California, before flying the next morning to Hawaii. They expect to leave Honolulu on Friday morning and stop at Seattle before returning to Washington at the end of the week.

The Nixons went to church Sunday.

Two countians, a 14-year-old boy and a 70-year-old man, lost their lives this weekend in traffic accidents investigated by state highway patrolmen of the Lisbon post.

Dead are:

James Hartman, 70, of Negley, who succumbed of injuries suffered in a one-car crash early Sunday.

Paul Norton, 14, of Kensington, killed while driving a motor bike Sunday night.

The deaths boost the Columbiana County total this year to 17.

Patrolmen said Hartman was a passenger in a car driven by Elmer G. Martin, 37, of Box 57, Negley, which failed to negotiate a curve on Rt. 170, about seven miles north of East Liverpool, left the road and hit a guard rail. After ramming the rail the car turned over. The mishap occurred at 4 a.m.

Martin's injuries included a fractured collar bone, cuts of the left eye and abrasions.

The car was only moderately damaged, patrolmen said. Young Norton suffered a crushed skull when the motor bicycle he was driving was hit from behind by a passenger car while westbound on combined Rts. 9 and 30, about three miles east of Kensington. The time of the accident was 10:30 p.m.

Patrolmen said Norton was struck by a car driven by Paul Holmes, 37, of 804 8th St., Canton. The boy was brought to Salem City Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

His vehicle was demolished.

Patrolmen are continuing their investigation.

Democrats Hurl Blasts at Nixon

Say He Lacks Basic Conviction on Issues

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy today released a statement signed by five Democratic Midwestern governors and three Democratic senators accusing Vice President Richard M. Nixon of a "lack of basic conviction" on farm aid and other issues.

The statement was signed by Govs. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa, George Docking of Kansas, Ralph Hereth of South Dakota, Gaylord A. Nelson of Wisconsin and Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota; and Sens. Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

The statement likened Nixon's break with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to "a political captain leaving the sinking ship."

"Vice President Nixon—a member of the Eisenhower administration team for the past 7½ years—in the short span of 38 hours since his nomination has repudiated two key parts of that administration's program," the statement said.

"This is just the first evidence of his lack of basic conviction on the issues to which Gov. (Nelson A.) Rockefeller alluded so eloquently before the midnight confrontation in New York."

The reference was to a mid-night conference between Nixon and Rockefeller at which they agreed on provisions of the Republican platform.

South Korean Election Mobs Riot at Polls

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Post-election mob violence and ballot burning spread in South Korea today. About 100 persons, most of them police, have been injured and 322 arrested.

Unconfirmed reports said two persons have been killed.

Caretaker Prime Minister Hub Chung accused politicians of instigating the mobs, in which students took a big part. National Police Chief Kang Su-ryong blamed losing candidates and their poll-watchers.

Troops fired tear gas shells to drive off 300 demonstrators who invaded a vote-counting station and burned 45 ballot boxes at Namwon, 150 miles south of Seoul. At least 10 of the demonstrators were reported injured. They blamed fraudulent vote counting for the election of a member of the victorious Democratic party.

In six election districts the targets were members or former members of ex-President Syngman Rhee's Liberal party who made strong showings in the parliamentary election Friday despite the general disrepute in which the party fell after Rhee's overthrow.

A mob of 5,500 at Sam Chon Po, 200 miles south of Seoul, wrecked the police station and the police chief's home, demanding that an ex-Liberal candidate be turned over to a kangaroo court to face vote-buying charges.

Major newspapers urged stern measures to restore order. A number condemned Hub Chung's government for allowing "counter-revolutionary" Liberal candidates to run in the election. The prime minister promised punishment for those responsible for the violence.

Former Vice President John M. Chang's Democratic party, which won two-thirds of the seats in the House of Representatives, also pulled far ahead in counting of returns for the less powerful, 58-member upper House of Councilors. Counting was expected to be completed Tuesday.

The Great Issues: Foreign Policy

Presidential Nominees Agree on Most Phases

Editor's Note—In a world of crisis and change, few issues will be aired more thoroughly in the coming presidential campaign than foreign policy. How do the candidates stack up in this crucial field? First of a series of articles on the major issues confronting Nixon and Kennedy.

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's press secretary recently handed newsmen an imposing list of world leaders with whom Nixon has talked, at home and abroad.

Included, of course, was Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Nixon's opponent in the much-publicized "kitchen debate" in Moscow, as well as leaders of virtually every other important nation.

News secretary Herbert G. Klein left it up to the reporters to draw their own conclusions as to the importance of such a broad acquaintance in the forthcoming presidential campaign — a campaign in which foreign policy is expected to play a major part.

Nixon's Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy, already has indicated he will counter this international name-dropping by pointing to his membership on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, his own extensive travels abroad, his foreign policy writings and his 14 years in Congress.

The campaign will have to define the areas of disagreement on reaching the broad foreign policy goals common to both candidates.

Kennedy and Nixon both are on record in favor of continued foreign aid, particularly to underdeveloped countries — with possible differences in emphasis. Both would give the President power to extend economic and financial aid behind the Iron Curtain if he feels it would help loosen satellite bonds to Moscow.

Neither has ruled out future summit conferences, though both have indicated that primary reliance in the future should be placed on negotiations at the for-ign minister and ambassadorial levels.

Both are on record favoring greater reliance on the World Court for settlement of international disputes by repealing a reservation against the court's jurisdiction in disputes involving the United States.

In a major speech to the Senate last June Kennedy declared that the issue in the campaign is not who "can best stand up to Khrushchev" or "swap threats and insults."

"The real issue is who can stand up and summon America's vast resources to the defense of freedom against the most dangerous enemy it ever faced," he said at the time. "We must make invulnerable a nuclear retaliatory power second to none."

In addition, he said, the United States must (1) be ready to intervene quickly in limited wars which threaten the peace, (2) rebuild the NATO alliance, (3) increase the flow of capital to underdeveloped nations in Asia, Africa, and Latin America, (4) reconstruct relations with South America, (5) find a new approach to the Middle East and (6) devise a long-range solution to the Berlin problem.

The United States, Nixon insists, is and under proper leadership will remain, "the strongest nation militarily, economically and morally," in the world.

Nixon told a recent meeting of the SEATO Council of foreign ministers the United States must be guided in the years ahead by the all-important principle of "firmness without belligerency."

After Khrushchev torpedoed the summit conference Nixon declared, "we must continue to explore every possible avenue for negotiating the outstanding differences we have with the Communist nations."

In his Senate speech, Kennedy said the summit collapse marked an end to the illusion that "personal good will is a substitute for good, carefully prepared bargaining on concrete issues, the illusion that good intentions are a substitute for strong creative leadership."

British Jazz Lovers Riot At Festival

LONDON (AP)—With one more night to go, the jazz festival on the estate of Lord Montagu went off smoothly Sunday night after a brawling mob of teen-agers took over the night before.

Extra police were stationed at historic Beaulieu, the estate 68 miles south of London, to make sure there was no repeat of the melee at the opening session of Britain's fifth annual jazz festival.

The Saturday night crowd was noisy but did not get out of hand until the appearance of Aker Bilk, Britain's current Dixieland sensation, and his band. Then teen-agers surged around the scaffolding holding large floodlights of the British Broadcasting Corp. and began climbing the structure.

Others in the packed crowd began booing and pelting the climbers with apple cores, eggs and anything else handy.

Scores of fights broke out. The scaffolding collapsed, bringing down teen-agers and floodlights.

Thousands of TV viewers watched the unexpected action. TV announcer Derek Jones told them: "Things have gotten completely out of hand. Obviously, this cannot go on."

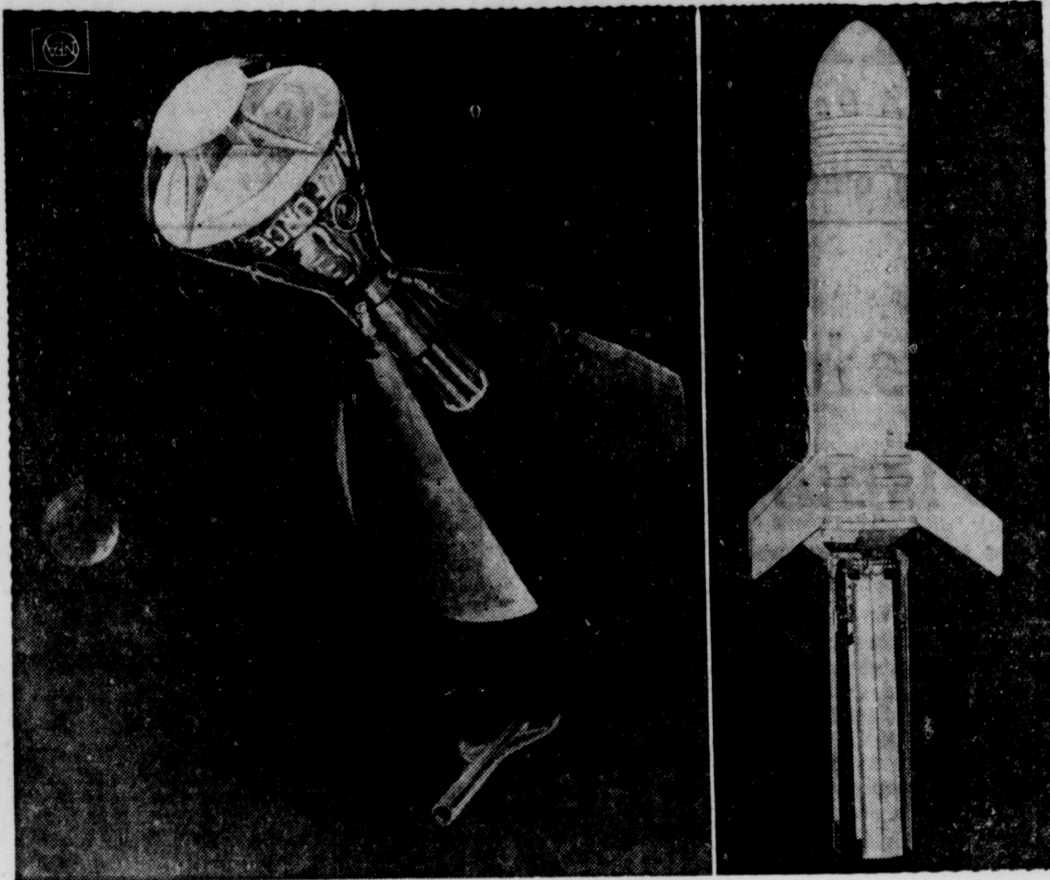

The BBC closed the program. Lord Montagu said: "I think one can safely say that is the last jazz festival to be held here."

About 100 jazz fans turned up at the estate Sunday morning to help clear up the debris.

Burglars Get Money, Merchandise at Market

LISBON — The theft of $25 in cash, 40 pounds of lunch meat, cigars, cigarettes and tobacco from Lowe's Market in Laceroff is being investigated by the Sheriff's office. Burglars entered the building early Sunday morning, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

The burglars broke the plate glass window in the door, reached in and turned the lock, Sheriff VanFossan said.

MAPLE SEEDS FROM SPACE — A new idea for recovering space capsules is under study by the Air Force. Helicopterlike rotary wings, working much like a spinning maple seed, are proposed to slow and guide the descent of missiles and other space vehicles. Photo, left, shows a forerunner of the idea which has been tested in more than 1,500 air drops by Kaman Aircraft Corp. Called Rotochute, it consists of a pod capable of floating about 200 pounds of cargo to the ground. Two rotor blades are attached to the hub. A spring snaps the blades from the folded position and gravity and air pressure combine to make them spin. Drawing, right, shows how the Rotochute might work with a space capsule as it re-enters the atmosphere.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's representative in the Miss America contest next month will be a 5-foot-8, 132-pound Marion girl who measures 36-24-35.

Alice Ann McClain, the 18-year-old winner of the Miss Ohio contest Saturday night, topped 16 other girls on the basis of beauty and talent, on which she also will be judged at the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City, N. J.

Alice, who sings and plays the piano, hopes to major in music at Cottey College, Nevada, Mo.

She came in first in Saturday night's swim suit and gown competition which preceded the Miss Ohio selection.

Miss McClain earlier this summer won the title Miss Heart of Ohio.

The new Miss Ohio, who succeeds 1959 winner Carole A. Weiler of Circleville, has in her court 18-year-old Peggy Kennedy, Miss Toledo, the first runner-up, and Elca Swigart, 20, Miss Greater Akron, the second runner-up.

The Miss Congeniality title was

Bathroom Is Worst Lighted Room In the Average Home

What's the worst lighted room in the average home? The bathroom, lighting experts say. Inadequate lighting may help explain why the bathroom also is one of the most dangerous rooms in the house. Thousands of persons are killed or injured annually in bathroom falls.

Sometimes the bad lighting is the fault of the builder, who may have used obsolete lighting standards in determining the location of the fixtures. And sometimes it is the fault of the home owner, who fails to make proper use of the lighting facilities provided, either through indifference or a false sense of economy.

The American Home Lighting Institute has come up with a series of recommendations for proper bathroom lighting. They can be used to determine how your own bathroom shapes up in this regard, as a gauge if you're having a home built or as a guide if you plan on making changes in the present setup. These recommendations, by the way, call for standards somewhat higher than what is known in the industry as "minimum light for living standards".

When the sink or wash basin is free standing, with a conventional mirror and medicine chest, use a pair of linear brackets, one on each side of the mirror, plus a ceiling fixture. The brackets should be centered 60 inches above the floor, 30 to 36 inches apart. Each bracket should use a 20-watt home-line fluorescent tube or two 40-watt incandescent bulbs. Home-line is a type of tube made by all manufacturers. The ceiling fixture should be centered with the mirror, above the front edge of the sink, using two fluorescent tubes, totaling a minimum of 40 watts, or 100 watts of incandescent lighting.

When one or two wash basins are installed in a vanity counter more than four feet wide, use a soffit, plus ceiling recessed units. The soffit should be at least 15 inches from front to back above the vanity. Two rows of fluorescent tubes, approximately the length of the mirror or counter, should be used.

A recessed unit in the ceiling should hold a minimum of 75 watts in each partitioned or curtained area. A vapor proof fixture should be used in the ceiling above the tub and/or shower enclosure.

For a very small lavatory or powder room, use a pair of brackets, mounted 60 inches above the floor and 24 to 30 inches apart, with a minimum of one 60-watt bulb or a single linear bracket, centered at the top of the mirror, using a minimum of two 60-watt bulbs.

Insulation Board Must Be Sealed Before It Is Painted

Insulation board falls under the general dry-wall category of wall-board and is sometimes referred to as fiberboard. But no matter what its designation, insulation board has a porous surface and must be sealed before it is painted. If this is not done, there will be an uneven absorption of the paint, giving an unattractive mottled appearance to the surface.

In some types of insulation board the paint absorption is so great that a single coat of sealer will not do the job. The sealer must dry to a uniform surface before it is safe to apply the paint. Once it is certain that the sealer has been effective, any regular wall paint — latex, oil or enamel — can be applied with good results.

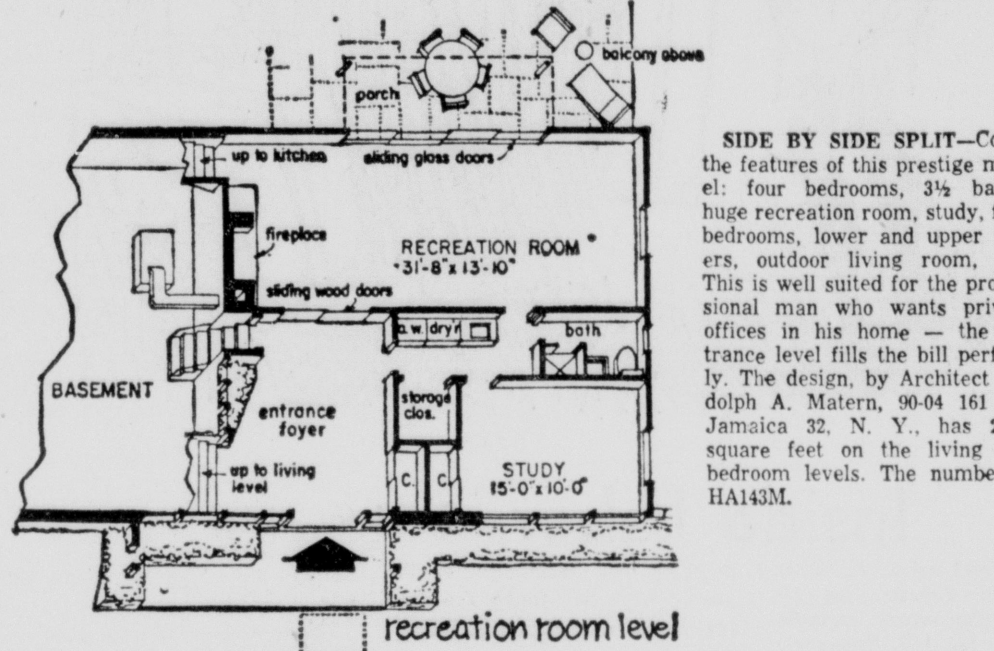

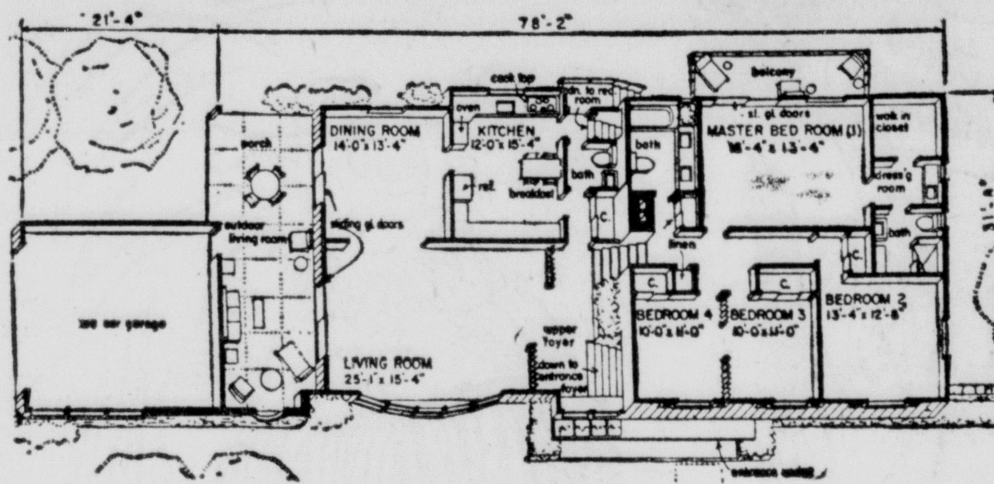

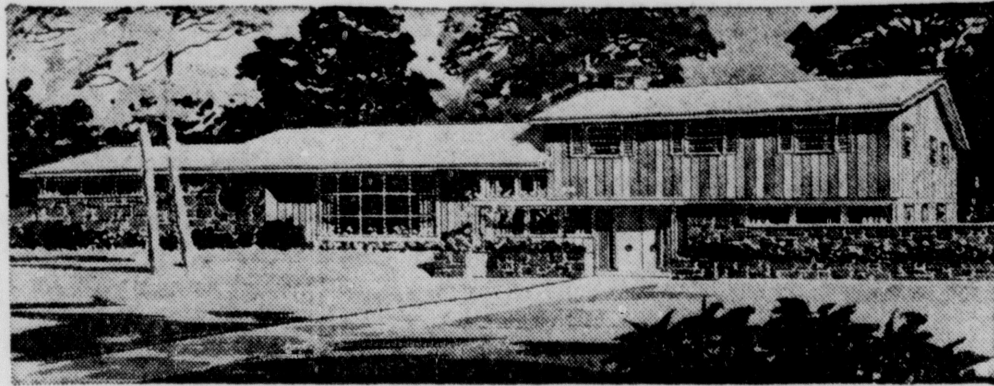

SEMI-GLOSS AND GLOSS enamels are recommended in bath rooms and kitchen, where extra scrubability is desired. Flat top-coats are recommended for walls and ceilings.

As in all other painting jobs, the surface of the insulation must be clean before any coating is applied. Oil and grease can be removed with an odorless paint thinner.

Insulation board used on exteriors should be painted the same way as any outdoor surface. The first step is to apply a house paint primer as soon as the board is erected, at a rate of not more than 450 square feet per gallon. As soon as the prime coat is dry, it should be followed by two topcoats of standard house paint. If brick or stone is lower on the bill, a non-chalking paint should be used to avoid staining the masonry.

SOMETIMES insulation board is impregnated with asphalt to give it better moisture resistance. While this type is usually sold by request and therefore not the kind you usually get, it is wise to check with your dealer. Asphalt-impregnated boards must be sealed with a special sealer designed for this purpose or with water emulsion paint or shellac. Two coats usually are necessary if this is not done, there may be "bleeding" which will show up as brown stains.

WHEN AN ACOUSTIC type of insulation board is applied to ceilings, it is best not to paint it un-

Use Nail to Find Hole In Roof; Then Do Simple Patch Job

Roof repairing is often left to the professional, and understandably so. Not all of us can scamper around on a sloping roof. And repairing roof shingles takes a little more skill than some of us possess.

But the flat roof—the type found on most garage and porches—is one that most homeowners can repair themselves.

What little slope there is doesn't present any balancing problems. The roofing material is general roll roofing which is simple to repair or patch.

Spotting Trouble
Spotting trouble before a leak develops calls for closer inspection. It's simple to notice that a shingle has blown away, or even cracked. A flat roof will start by blistering before cracking.

Sheets of roofing may open up at the seams. Bulges develop as heat and cold cause the material to expand and contract unevenly. Then it fails to return to normal.

Once a leak has developed it's simple to locate. On an inclined roof the water may enter at one point and show up inside at another, usually farther down the slope.

Look Straight Up
But when you find a puddle on the garage floor or a splash of water on your newly-washed car look straight up. That's where the leak is. Drive a nail from below an you'll be able to locate the exact spot up above.

You'll need a can of roofing asphalt, an old broom or roofing brush to apply it and a lineoleum knife. Some pieces of roofing felt, galvanized roof nails and a hammer are needed for larger holes.

Cut through the bubbles in the roofing and trim away loose material. Spread roof coating over the area to be patched and then place a new piece of roofing over the spot so that it extends beyond it a few inches on all sides. More asphalt at the edges will seal it. A few nails will make it more secure. Coat the whole patch with asphalt.

A roof that is crisscrossed with tiny cracks should be entirely coated with compound. Larger cracks would be individually filled with compound first. Seams between sheets of roofing should also be checked first and resealed and sealed if necessary.

Sprinkle Sand
While it's not absolutely necessary, a sprinkling of sand on the fresh coating will make for a more durable job.

Roofing has a tendency to curl at the edges of the roof. While you're up there, check it and re-nail and seal if necessary. Whenever you use nails be certain to coat the heads with asphalt. While no one wants to work on a roof on a blistering hot day, pick one that's at least 70 degrees or warmer. The roof coating will go on more easily.

The World Is Much With Us

In the lull between the last convention speech and the first campaign speech, it is possible to remember an old-fashioned idea of America's role in the world.

Its disciples called it "nonintervention." Its opponents used a harsh word — "isolation."

Neither word is heard now. "Noninterventionists" and "isolationists" have fallen silent, lest they be pointed out as relics of the past. They do not want to embarrass new leaders who are proceeding on the assumption that the United States is the guardian of the world and the world is waiting for the United States to show it how to save itself from the Communist conspiracy.

In the 1960 national campaign, the apparent strategy is for both parties to run against Chairman Khrushchev of the Soviet Union, instead of against each other, with voters making their choice on the basis of which party could pull the chairman and his conspirators up shorter.

This is nothing new, of course, and neither is it anything questionable, because international communism vs. the worldwide desire to offset it with international freedom for the rights of individuals is clearly the great issue of the 20th century.

But in this lull between conventioning and campaigning, it is possible to think about the implications of the issue.

BOTH PARTIES now embrace intervention. Neither party is expecting to make further political use of isolationism, which once had a strong political pull based on the psychology that causes most people to distrust the consequences of intervention.

Republicans and Democrats alike are going to do something in this campaign that has annoyed them whenever it was done by someone like Fidel Castro in Cuba, running against the United States as the easiest thing for Cubans to hate.

There is the threat of international communism; it cannot be ignored. But the question of the 1960 campaign may become whether the threat safely can be distorted, as it will be by campaign orators.

The world is much with us; no one can doubt that.

And we are much with the world; no one can doubt that.

The question is whether the United States can intervene without interfering; whether it can expand its role as a world power without over expanding to the point of dissipating its strength.

IT IS THE old question once raised by Henry A. Wallace when he dreamed of distributing milk to Hottentots. Even if Hottentots like milk, getting it to them in significant quantities from the United States would have been an exhausting distribution project, out of any proportion to its real importance.

This is what will have to be guarded against, now that nothing is left of isolationism but memories of an era when the United States longed to remain free from a troubled world's entanglements.

Our foreign aid and mutual security programs have been cursed by muddled concepts and wasteful spending. Vice President Nixon said in his acceptance speech that all existing interventionist agencies should be reorganized under direct presidential authority, so he and they both will know what they are doing.

The main business of the United States is the United States, itself. Its main strategy in the contest with international communism is to maintain its own strength and identity by making certain its resources are not dissipated over so vast an area they will be of no avail.

Accusations that the United States is fooling with world domination would be listened to just as closely by the world's skeptics as accusations that the Soviet Union and the Communist conspirators are doing the same thing. Intervening without interfering is an international art that never has been practiced successfully.

The Only Real Revolution

Both presidential campaigns will try to blast the United States off dead-center in the 20th century war of words.

Vice President Nixon has spelled out his intentions. Sen. Kennedy can be expected to spell out his, just as clearly.

Here is one point on which there can be automatic bipartisan agreement. Both candidates want to rescue the country from endless rebuttal of Communist declarations.

The United States has been kept on the defensive in the war of words by the Kremlin strategy of attack. It has been like a baseball team unable to come to bat because it couldn't get the other side out.

Its attempts to bear down harder were subject to opposition by Americans, themselves, moreover. It is one of the murkier passages of newspaper attitude toward government that the U.S. press opposed development of an overseas information service, contending that this was a function of free press enterprise.

There still is nothing being done by this country of really significant strength and size. The battlefield for men's minds has been left largely to the shock troops of the Communist party, who range freely up and down its length proclaiming they are the agents of modern revolution.

THE TRUTH IS they are the agents of the modern counter-revolution, which seeks to offset the only real revolution of the Christian era—the one crystallized by the American Declaration of Independence.

From 1776 on, despotism was kept on the defensive by the radicals of America, France and Britain, who preached that governments were made to serve men, not men to serve governments.

This was the great break in the tradition of government by arrogation and assumption—the underlying philosophy of all the authoritarian systems.

It proclaimed that men were more important than the states that gave them national identification; that their dignity was more important than the dignity of the public officials they had hired to serve them and hence, could fire whenever they felt like it.

TO THIS DAY, nothing has shattered the composure of despots, and would-be despots like the release of human individualism. It is the one thing every despot fears. It is the one right that must be resisted above all others.

It is the reason for the Iron Curtain that kept Russians from the world so long. It is the reason for Russia's unrelenting campaign to belittle and besmirch the United States.

The real revolution of the era still boils and explodes in the minds of men who wonder what it would be like to be free—not to tremble when government beckons—not to exist at the mercy of an anonymous bureaucrat who has arrogated the right to give life-and-death orders.

Strange is the fact so many people outside America are more impressed with this than Americans, themselves.

Thus, the first task in making the American revolution dynamic again will be to make Americans understand their heritage of revolution—and that is certain to be a central theme of the 1960 presidential campaign.

Ditching The Civil Rights Issue

One threadbare phrase has been discarded forever by the 1960 political conventions.

Neither party ever should mention "civil rights issue" again, except in reminiscence. The issue is dead. It was a long time dying.

The dying began when the 14th amendment to the Constitution was declared in effect in 1868. It said that all persons born or naturalized in the United States were its citizens and their privileges and immunities could not be abridged by state laws. It further said that all citizens were entitled to the equal protection of all the laws and that no person could be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.

This guarantee has been kicked around, twisted, misrepresented, distorted, shredded, misinterpreted, misapplied and muddled by two generations of wilful Americans determined to thwart its purpose.

IT HAS BEEN ignored persistently by a

Columbiana County Engineer Charles Snyder and his maintenance crews are to be commended for their program of painting white lines along the edges of all roads in the county system.

Patterned after the white striping introduced on state highways several years ago, the lines are clearly distinguishable by motorists at night and also on foggy mornings.

Motorists who travel the district highways appreciate this extra effort by the county to provide another margin of safety.

type of southern politician whose public career was built on ability to exploit voter prejudice. It has been fine-drawn into legal cobwebs by a type of legalist who arrogated the right to read into basic law hair-splitting distinctions between what was obviously true and what the legalist wanted to believe was true.

The 14th amendment has been political fodder for hundreds of office seekers who have mouthed it and dropped underfoot what they did not feel like ingesting. But finally, at long last, both political parties, weary of trying to appease unappeasables both in the South and the North, have adopted statements so clearly in support of the 14th amendment that there is no issue any more.

THIS DOESN'T MEAN civil rights will be immune to tampering from now on. It means the tamperers have lost the political sanction that they once wheeled out of conventions, with threats of revenge and promises of support.

It means at long last that all those who practice prejudice are on their own. They cannot scuttle for cover under a dispute about the Constitution. They cannot clothe their legal and moral failure in mumbo-jumbo—and never again can they point to a statement in a political platform to excuse their act.

The 14th amendment has been taken out of partisan politics. It never should have been in politics in the first place—no more so than the Golden Rule, which is essentially what it is.

"Me Friendly Savage"

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel asked J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, for his analysis of the Soviets' invisible invasion of the U.S. His reply follows.

By JOHN EDGAR HOOVER

The security of our nation — indeed, the safety and freedom of each American — rests in the hands of those who are in possession of any information which might be helpful to an enemy.

It is an indisputable fact that Communist-directed espionage activity exists on a massive worldwide front.

There has been no cessation of such activity in the United States. On the contrary, our military, scientific, and industrial secrets have been and continue to be targets on which a veritable army of espionage agents have focused their efforts.

What type of data do these agents seek?

The answer is: Anything and everything. It is a fact that the intelligence objectives of the Communist-bloc countries can properly be described as all-encompassing. Why should the Communists be interested in securing information relative to a strike or other internal friction? Such items are valuable grist for their propaganda mill.

WHY SHOULD details relating to the personal lives of scientists and government officials attract attention of intelligence agents?

The answer in one brutal word — blackmail. If an unsavory incident can be dredged up, it may serve as a lever to secure additional data.

It goes without saying that, in a drive to achieve military superiority, the Communists continue to concentrate on securing data relating to developments and discoveries in the scientific field.

Theft of the secrets of construction and detonation of the atomic bomb was among the more spectacular efforts in this field.

The subsequent arrest and prosecution of such individuals as Klaus Fuchs, Harry Gold, Morton Sobel, David Greenglass and the Rosenbergs could not, of course, offset the fact that the Communists had secured data of immense value in advancing their objective — domination of the world.

Military information of any and every type is sought by the Soviet intelligence apparatus.

The operation of one branch of this apparatus, designed to penetrate the security of operations of United States forces in Austria, was followed by our military authorities abroad for two years.

Through the patriotic assistance of an informant who served his adopted country conscientiously, we were able to follow the trail of espionage as efforts were made to expand the operation on United States soil.

THESE EFFORTS were made by the second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington. Information solicited on behalf of Soviet Russia included data relating to our Air Force personnel stationed abroad, morale among Air Force officers and enlisted personnel, Air Force interrogation techniques, the identity of United States intelligence sources, the identity of fellow employees of our confidential informant (employed by the United States government in a sensitive position) and the names of United States military personnel destined for overseas assignment.

The Communist diplomat — spy also sought information in United States intelligence files dealing with Russian installations and Russian military capabilities, the current location of a defected Soviet airman then in the United States and data dealing with the United States' preparations for war or defense.

This espionage attempt concluded with the trial and sentencing of two naturalized American citizens. The co-conspirator from the diplomatic corps was declared persona non grata by the State Department and returned to Russia.

The effort which Soviet intelligence agents make in seeking to minimize personal contact and consequent danger of compromise became very apparent in the case of Soviet spy Rudolf Ivanovich Abel.

In this case, a system of widely separated "dead drops" or "banks" was established throughout the metropolitan area of New York so that the espionage agents might make contact with each other.

THESE DROPS were located in parks, theaters, bars and other public places. Messages were left at benches, lamp posts or fences in these locations.

Often the messages were secreted in hollowed-out objects such as bolts, pencils or nickels. Such things as hollow cuff links, hollow flashlight battery, hollow-handled shaving brush and a hollowed nail were found in Abel's rooms.

The Soviet-bloc espionage apparatus seeks, political, scientific, economic, cultural and military information of all types.

Why, for example, should they seek to gain knowledge of our passport procedures or tax regulations? Such knowledge is essential to their illegal or "deep cover" agents if the latter are to remain undetected in this country.

There has been an expansion of Soviet-bloc intelligence activities directed against the United States with widespread use of "leg" agents operating under the guise of diplomatic status.

There also has been a tightening-up of the organization structure of the entire Soviet intelligence apparatus.

Certainly, there is every indication that foreign directed espionage activity will be continued on an increasing scale for an indefinite period in the future.

Every American citizen should be aware of this and be on guard.

Business Irks Labor

By PETER EDSON

Unions Blast Firms' Political Actions

WASHINGTON — Business participation in political education is running into attacks from labor unions whose political action programs the corporations sought to imitate and offset.

After Ford's general counsel William T. Gossett charged that, "Labor's main political strength consists in its ability . . . to coerce political officeholders," the National Ford Council of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers came back with this:

"The attack on the political activities of unions is an attack on workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, social security and all the other benefits which workers have won through legislation, since it is in the fight for such programs that unions have been most active politically."

Henry Ford II. in an earlier statement on his political principles had denied any such intent.

"Despite the growing political power of labor unions," said Ford. "I think it would be a great mistake for businessmen to regard political activity in negative, stop-union terms . . . Furthermore, I do not advocate that all businessmen get behind one political party. I think there is a need for businessmen in both national parties."

WHILE ALL CORPORATION campaigns insist they are non-partisan, the Auto Workers charge that every dollar contributed by top Ford officials in 1956 went to Republicans and that the Ford family alone gave $37,000.

So the union calls for exploration of the "current big business, intensified political campaign against the unions."

Some business leaders tried to warn their colleagues they would get into hassles like this.

President Arnold H. Marenmont of Allied Paper Co., Chicago, told American Management Assn. a year ago that the campaign to inject business into politics is "ill-conceived, extremely dangerous, a violation of our sound democratic system—and perhaps illegal. I regard the separation of business, as business, from our politics as important to our political health a separation of church and state."

But at about the same time President William P. Stok of American Can Co. was declaring that:

"Businessmen must become politically sophisticated. We must, as individuals, personally participate in the job of helping to select, nominate and elect able people to public office."

American Can then started on a program to inform management and employees of political developments and to encourage them to become active in the political party of their choice.

ABOUT 50 CORPORATIONS now follow this pattern. They support varying political action programs. Ford recently distributed double envelopes to all its employees so they could make private contributions directly to their party instead of through the union to the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education—COPE.

Aerojet General's 1960 good citizenship campaign registered 2,710 new voters for the California primary and also raised several thousand dollars for candidates.

Gulf Oil is running two contests—one for employees and one for customers, with several thousand prizes worth half a million dollars.

Participants must select a candidate and write up to 25 words on why he should be president. The idea is to stimulate thinking on the qualifications for the office.

ALL THESE AND OTHER programs are still pretty much of a scatter-shot proposition. Ford's director of civic and governmental affairs points out that, "Firms with fewer than 10,000 employees have 82 per cent of the total business population."

Some are reared by the National Small Business Men's Assn. and its "A, B, C of Politics" course.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce has reached over 1,000 communities in all 50 states with its nine-week "Action Course in Practical Politics." But there have been only 67,000 participants—a small percentage of the hundred-million potential voters.

Chamber President Arthur H. Motley, who directed the planning of this course two years ago, says it has had some failures and more successes.

A man at the head of one county political machine used the course to recruit and train workers.

Lodge to Lodge

By TRUMAN TWILL

My earliest recollection of politics is bursting into tears because uncounted relatives made fun of Woodrow Wilson when he was fighting for the League of Nations.

What made it memorable was my disappointment in people I had loved and trusted. They helped to raise me. They were near and dear to my family and me—but when they made fun of Woodrow Wilson they were hateful.

I was not to know until later that they were only getting a rise out of me. That's risky when the victim is very young, because to a child every battle is for real and for keeps.

Even in this sophisticated country we still are a long way from a lawyer attitude about political discussion. Lawyers disagree over the points of their cases, then go out to lunch together. Some of the more polished members of the U.S. Senate do this, too. They tie into each other in debate, then leave the Senate chamber arm in arm.

But for most of us, politics is for keeps and for real. We never learn to be objective about it and to handle our part in it impersonally. Getting a rise out of someone on the other side of the fence is like fooling with a man-eating tiger.

The more I see of this, the more certain I am that it's the only way a government can work under a two-party system. There is no place for the objectivity that lawyers and some of the political sophisticates attain.

All others must behave like political primitives, going for the jugular, never forgiving, never forgetting, always maligning, slandering, smearing and never giving a neutral the benefit of his doubt.

There's no place in politics for gray thinkers who can't divide the world into blacks and whites. They're futile. They're foolish. And they're ridiculous.

Extremists prey on them from both sides. They are pulled and hauled by stronger-willed people who have the courage of their convictions, even if their convictions are wrong.

The strong-minded men who racked up Woodrow Wilson on the League of Nations issue were wrong. It's one of the ironies of our time that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., grandson of the hard-bitten isolationist senator who led the fight on the League of Nations, should be knocking himself out in the United Nations as chief spokesman for the United States. It is as though the grandson had taken it upon himself to go 100 per cent against his own ancestor, to make certain that both should be known as men of determination and thereby to balance history.

History pays no attention to timmers and bobbys who can see a little of good and a little of truth on both sides, because that in fact is the way it always is.

Children see things in black and white, political primitives baying at the moon see them that way. That's the way things are presented to them, and they ask no questions.

I wish for my own sake and the sake of my country I could get as sore about politics in 1960 as I did in 1919 when Woodrow Wilson was worth crying for. The trouble is, now I'd be analytical, instead of emotional—and that would spoil everything. Wilson didn't have everything figured out—not by the widest stretch of faith.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I started to read your column for entertainment. After a while I began to pick up some useful hints on how to handle personal problems. I never dreamed that one day you would help me become a lawyer.

This is exactly what happened: Last February there appeared in your column a problem dealing with the overhanging branches of a walnut tree. The writer wanted to know if the walnuts which fell onto the neighbor's property belonged to him or to the neighbor. You gave a comprehensive answer which evidently had been checked out by an attorney. I read your reply several times and embedded the facts securely in my mind.

I am a certified public accountant and I studied law. Unfortunately I was too busy with my accounting practice to study thoroughly for the bar exam last month.

I am enclosing the Maryland bar exam, and call your attention to Question 12. The question is identical to the problem you handled in your column, except here it deals with apples, and you used walnuts.

Passing grade is 210 points. My final grade was 210½ points. Had I missed your column on that particular day I surely would have flunked the bar exam and would not be a lawyer today. Thank you very much.—B. S. R. OF BALTIMORE.

Dear B. S. R.: Congratulations—but don't thank me. Thank the editor of the newspaper in which you read me. I only write the column. It's the editor who makes it available to the readers. Naturally I am pleased and it was good of you to write.

Sly Nipper

Dear Ann: My sister-in-law has been in the family for six years and I just learned some shocking news about her.

Mary never has been known to take a drink at a party or in her own home. She always has ginger ale and pretends that she dislikes alcohol. The other evening she was drinking ginger ale as usual and when she excused herself to go to the other room I followed her.

She reached into her handbag, took out what appeared to be a medicine bottle and had a big swig. I checked the bottle a few minutes later and sure enough, it was straight gin.

Shall I tell her I know and now she can quit trying to kid the world? It burns me up that she puts on the nicey-nice act when she's really a lush.—ON TO HER.

Dear On: Say nothing. Mary needs help, not humiliation. It's enough that she knows she's alcoholic. Letting her know that you know, too, will not improve the situation. Your letter indicates neither understanding nor desire to help, so I suggest you remain silent.

Table Manners

Dear Ann: This is no big deal but we need to know—wrong or right.

My boyfriend puts the whole olive into his mouth and then spits out the seed. He doesn't even remove the stone with his fingers. He sort of pings it onto the dinner plate.

I say you should not touch the olive or the pit with your hands. You should piece it with a fork, and remove the pit by depositing it in a spoon. Who is right?—CONNIE.

Dear Connie: You're both wrong. It's perfectly proper to touch an olive with your fingers. The correct procedure is to pick it up and nibble the meat off the stone. (Pinging the pits is out!)

Off-Beat Drummer

Dear Ann: My father was a rather famous band leader. I always had a yen for musicians.

At 18 I fell for a drummer. He was terribly handsome and I was a romantic nitwit who thought I knew it all. My dad told me Teddy was n.g. but I wouldn't listen.

Well to make a long story short I lost control of myself and wound up pregnant. When I told Teddy he said it was a tough break for me and he had his career to think about. He skipped town and I was left to face the music—without my musician.

A wonderful fellow I used to go with heard about my trouble and begged me to marry him. He isn't much on looks but he has wonderful character and he was crazy about me. We were married six months before the baby was born. He treats the boy as if it were his own.

Two years have passed and we are happy together although my life isn't exciting or romantic.

I got a phone call from my drummer boy yesterday. He says he hasn't been able to get me out of his mind. He's coming to town in two weeks to play a job and wants to see me and his son. He says legally the boy is his and I have no right to keep him away.

I have no interest in seeing him but I want to know if he has a right to see his son? Please help me.—CLARISSA.

Dear Clarissa: If this heel has the nerve to call when he gets to town tell him to take his drum and beat it.

Biologically he's the father but he has no legal rights. The man who married you is the boy's legal father.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mowing Lawn Can Be Risky Business

Each year more and more American couples manage to purchase their own homes.

And each year more and more Americans learn the hard way that there's more to owning a home than shelling out the down payment and entering into an enduring contest with the otherpart who holds the mortgage.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

Pretty soon the homeowner earns that owning a home may be included in the list of risky occupations.

Perhaps not as risky as handling high tension wires, racing stock cars or playing pro football, but risky enough.

EVERY YEAR there are civilian casualty lists that include neighbors who had heart attacks while shoveling snow, slipped disks while weeding and recurrences of

Kennedy Plans Political Stand On Big Issues

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy tackled problems of straight politics, complex foreign policy and labor today as he started the third and last week of his work-rest vacation.

He planned meetings with Bernard Boutin, a Democratic candidate for governor of New Hampshire, on strictly political problems; and with Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, one of his top foreign policy advisers.

Boutin managed Kennedy's primary election campaign in New Hampshire, the first of seven primaries the senator entered and won in his march to the Democratic presidential nomination.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, was reported in neighboring Hyannis waiting for an interview with Kennedy, but there was no official announcement. McDonald was a strong Kennedy booster in the campaign for the nomination. The rank and file members have been reported unhappy about Kennedy's selection of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as a running mate.

Kennedy is doing some heavy thinking and absolutely no talking about the men he will select for cabinet posts if he is elected president.

Kennedy met for four hours Sunday with Adlai E. Stevenson, one of those he beat out for the nomination. Stevenson, who won the 1952 and 1956 nominations, pledged himself to support the Kennedy-Johnson ticket to the hilt.

He is one of those who has been mentioned for secretary of state if Kennedy wins. But he said this had not been discussed in their long talk, two hours of it at Kennedy's summer home, and two hours cruising on the Kennedy power boat Marlin.

Kennedy said he had received valuable advice from Stevenson, and that they discussed future campaign speeches by the former Illinois governor in California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and other states.

Kennedy attended services Sunday at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church. He sent word to reporters that he claims the right to "go to church in private."

MEANEST MAN IN TOWN — Adolphe Menjou, portraying Mr. Pendergast, a reclusive who reportedly can't abide children, harangues Hayley Mills and Kevin Corcoran in this scene from the film, "Pollyanna," which will be shown at the State Theater for a week beginning Wednesday. Besides Menjou, Jane Wyman, Richard Regan and Karl Malden also appear in the picture.

Farmers Bank, Kresge Advance to State Hot Stove Play

Win District Titles at Alliance

Knights of Columbus, Kitchens Victors

Two Salem Hot Stove League teams, Farmers National Bank and Kresge's, advanced to the State Hot Stove League Tournament at Lorain after winning district titles at Alliance over the weekend.

Two other squads, Knights of Columbus and Youngstown Kitchens, have one more contest to win in the district tonight in order to advance.

A fifth Salem nine, Purity Dairy, was dumped from the competition Saturday in Class D action by Wooster.

Class D
Purity Dairy fell before a six-run third inning by Wooster when the Wooster nine managed to bang out four hits coupled with an error. The winners scored again in the 6th on a double, a walk and an infield out.

Purity scored all three of its runs in the 5th on singles by Han-nah, Demotta and Roberts and a double by Petrilla.

Class F

Farmers Bank swept two week-end games pushing itself into the Lorain state finals. They downed Alliance in a squeaker Saturday on a brilliant four-hit pitching by George Begalla who allowed only one run while his teammates were scoring two runs on four hits. In Sunday's game, Wayne Washington sparked in throwing a three-hitter against Augusta as the Farmers' nine batted out a 5-3 win.

The local outfit managed to get its first run in the Alliance contest without getting a hit when the opposition gave up two walks, allowing one man to score on pop-ups. In the sixth a triple by Scott and a single by Beery scored the second and winning run.

In Sunday's District Championship, Begalla banged out two triples to lead his mates in the batting department. Although he gave up three runs, Washington kept his opponents scoreless and hitless for six innings. In the 7th, he became a little lenient, giving up a single, double and triple for three runs before he was able to retire the side.

In the only other Class F game, Youngstown Kitchens belted out nine runs to drop Carrollton Vets 5-7.

Steele was the big gun in the Kitchens' attack, getting two singles and a triple. Ten walks to the losers was the key to Carrollton's offense as they managed to get only one hit while the winners were getting 12.

Chicago Wins Doubleheader Over Washington 5-2, 9-5

Off to a late start, Early Wynn binned to give Chicago a doubleheader sweep with a 9-5 victory in the nightcap. Wynn hurled his second successive complete game, picture just as he did a year ago when the Chicago White Sox took all the marbles for the first time in 40 years.

Futile and 40 in the first half of the season, his 21st in the majors, Wynn is still 40. However, this 22-game winner of 1959, has bounced back to record three straight victories. Meanwhile, the White Sox have opened up a game and a half lead over the runner-up New York Yankees.

Sunday, Wynn won the early game 5-2 over Washington while Bob Shaw and Gerry Staley com-

Orioles Drop Indians 6-5

Newcombe Happy at Transfer to Tribe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don Newcombe says his transfer to the Cleveland Indians last Friday from the Cincinnati Redlegs was "like coming back to the big leagues."

"I couldn't be happier," the big right-hander said Sunday in Baltimore, where the Indians dropped a 6-5 decision to the Orioles. "I've always had a high regard for the Cleveland organization."

The 34-year-old hurler spoke with bitterness of the Cincinnati club, for which he won four games and lost six last season.

"I'd start every six or seven days and then they complained because I didn't finish," he said.

"Heck, they were always taking me out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh or eighth. They forget that last year I finished 17 games."

Newcombe, top pitcher in the majors in 1956 with a 27-7 record for the Brooklyn Dodgers, is looking forward to pitching in the American League. He will get that chance Tuesday night when he goes against the Washington Senators in the second of a three-game series. Jim Perry opens for Cleveland against Hal Woodeshick tonight.

The series here ends the Indians' current road trip during which they have lost eight of 10 games, making it 17 losses in their last 23 tests. They return to Cleveland Friday night to open a four-game series with the Orioles.

Sunday's loss pushed the Indians deeper into fourth place — three games behind the third-place Orioles, who took advantage of wild pitching to win the decision. Starter Gary Bell gave another disappointing performance for the Indians and was tagged with his ninth defeat. He has nine victories.

Brooks Robinson hit a grand slam home run in the first inning after Bell walked the bases full. Rookie reliever Carl Mathias walked two batters with two out in the second inning and then gave up run-scoring singles to Jim Gentile and Robinson.

Baltimore starter Hal (Skinny) Brown was sent to the showers in the second inning when rookie Mike de la Hoz hit a home run following singles by Vic Power and Jim Piersall.

Wes Stock, a rookie right-hander recently called up from Miami, relieved Brown and pitched five scoreless innings. He weakened in the eighth and was replaced by Jack Fisher after he walked Ken Aspromonte, gave up a single to Harvey Kuenn and both runners advanced on a ground out. The runners scored on a single to center field by Piersall.

The Orioles got only one hit, a double by Robinson, after the second inning. Mathias allowed only three hits in the five innings he pitched and then southpaw Dick Stigman hurled two hitless rounds.

Merchants Split Double Bill

Score 8-7 Victory After Losing 2-1

The Salem Merchants split a doubleheader with Lawrenceville Sunday in the County-City League, taking the opening contest in a pitchers' duel 2-1 and dropping the second 8-7.

In the second half of the doubleheader things moved hot and heavy, starting in the second inning when the visitors scored five runs on a walk, a triple by Martin and singles by Reed, Hobbs, and Hale, and an error. In the next inning Salem's Wyss walked, moved up on a single by Everett, and went home on a fly and an infield out. The losers scored one run each in the 4th and 5th to close out scoring for their side.

In the 5th inning, Salem rammed three runs across the plate on one hit — that by Hunter — a walk and two errors. The remaining runs were scored in an inning at a time through the 9th when Walters walked, moved up on an infield out and scored on a single by Brudery.

A fine defensive performance coupled with five-hit pitching by S. Pugh for Lawrenceville was the margin of victory in the opener. Pugh kept his hits scattered and allowed only two men to reach base on any one inning. The only score off him came in the sixth inning when Hunter reached on an error and later scored on another error.

Pugh scored himself on an error in the fifth inning, becoming the difference in the contest. He got on first on an error and scored on another error and an infield out. Big blast in the fray was a homer by Hobbs in the 4th.

Ohio-Pennsylvania All-Star Game Ends In 12-12 Tie

Chappell, Morris Spark Countians

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

The University of Maryland has latched on to two first rate football players from Columbian County.

Tackle Ned Chappell of Salem and Halfback George Morris of East Palestine certainly were not the whole show, but there were a few other football players at Patterson field in East Liverpool Saturday night when the Columbian County and Beaver Valley teams battled to a 12-12 tie in the First Annual Penn-Ohio All-Star game.

These two Maryland bound athletes sparked a second-half rally which gained the Ohio team a tie. The strong, hard-running Morris was his team's leading ground gainer and Salem's Chappell was a stalwart in a fray featured by bone-crunching line play on both sides.

Pennsylvania struck first at the 6:53 mark of the opening period when Halfback Phil Williams of New Castle skirted his own left end for 11 yards and a touchdown. The TD came just as it looked as though Ohio had stopped a long Pennsylvania drive. The Beaver Valley crew had a fourth down and 10 to go for a first down when Williams went all the way.

ON THIS PLAY, Ohio's little safety man, Willis Woods of East Palestine, was hit so hard that he was knocked groggy. Although the game 150-pounder got to his feet and played most of the tilt on defense, he still didn't remember after the contest of getting hit on that touchdown play.

A fine tackle by Salem's Bob Lambert spoiled an attempt by Fullback Bruce Wilkins of Allegheny to convert the extra points on a run.

Ohio got even early in the second period when Quarterback Bob Mackall of East Liverpool went wide around his own left end from two and a half yards out. Morris set up the RD on a beautiful 35-yard scamper to the Pennsylvania 20.

Lisbon's fleet Tom Brooks carried 15 more yards to the five. An offside penalty against Pennsylvania put the ball on the two and a half from where Mackall took it over.

MORRIS WAS thrown short of the goal on the conversion attempt. Pennsylvania's other touchdown came in the second quarter and was set up by a fumble. Columbian's Tom Logan was back on his own four-yard line to punt when a high pass from center bounced out of his hands and he was unable to get the ball away.

Wilkins, a pile-driving 185-pound fullback, rammed the ball over on two carries. Mackall came up fast to knock down a pass attempt for the conversion.

The half ended with Pennsylvania on top 12-6.

WHILE PENNSYLVANIA had the edge in the first half, the second two periods found the Ohioans outplaying their heavier foes.

With a backfield of Mackall at quarterback, Morris and Brooks at the halfback slots and Salem's Pete Schmauch at fullback, the Ohio offense started to roll on the ground.

After being shoved back to its own seven-yard line by a punt, Ohio rolled 93 yards in 10 plays to tie the game. Schmauch broke through for 12 yards on the first carry; Brooks raced for 31 and Morris smashed out 17 to put the ball on Pennsylvania's 33-yard line.

Seven plays later Morris slipped outside his own left tackle from about two feet out for the equalizer. The Ohio blocking in this drive was outstanding.

Mackall failed to get the needed yardage on the extra point try and the score remained 12-12. Neither team was able to register in the final period.

MACKALL AND Quarterback Ken Russell of Midland were voted the most valuable players in the game. Russell received support from the writers and sportscasters covering the fray, chiefly for his outstanding job on defense. Playing in one of the safety spots, Russell seemed to be in on almost every tackle.

The talented Mackall did not experience one of his better nights. The soggy turf seemed to give him trouble. The few passes that he tried were off their marks and one of his pichtouts went behind Morris who made an excellent recovery to save the Ohio team a big loss.

The fact that Mackall could be off his game and still be good enough to be named most valuable player is an indication of the type of player this boy is. Mackall will attend Northwestern University.

CHUCK ROBINSON of East Palestine was every bit as good in this game as his All-Ohio rating would indicate. From the showing of the East Palestine contingent Saturday night, it's not hard to realize how Coach Howard Wevers' Bulldogs managed to win the Tri-County League title last season.

The game was full of outstanding performers. On defense, End Tony Petrucci of Salem and defensive back Dave Zelch of East Liverpool were both in on numerous tackles. Wilkins of the Pennsylvanians was his team's big offensive threat until he was injured in the second half.

The coaching staffs, headed by Bud Bucher of Lisbon and Willie Ciccone of New Castle, molded fine clubs in the brief period they had these boys together at Mount Union College training camp.

DESPITE A HEAVY rain which poured down right up until game time, an estimated crowd of 4,500 attended the contest, which was sponsored by the East Palestine

Jaycees. Mel Smith, the hard-working director of the game, said the Jaycees lost money on the contest but he won't know how much until all the money from program advertisement and ticket sales are in.

Plans are being made to hold the second annual Penn-Ohio All-Star tilt in New Castle, Pa., next year.

During a long halftime ceremony at the game Saturday night, Claudia Fennell of East Palestine and Joan Hampton of Ellwood City were named Miss Columbian and Miss Valley respectively. The selections were made by Jaycee presidents in the two areas. The two queens will receive complete wardrobe.

Miss Corrine Huff, Miss Ohio of 1960, crowned the queens.

PRO FOOTBALL PLAYS

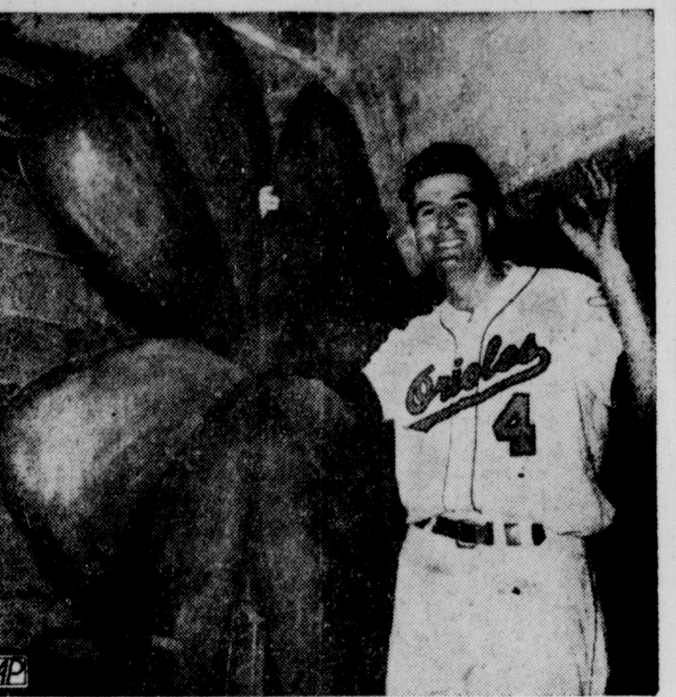

Professional football edged its way into the sports picture over the weekend as two exhibition games were played by teams of the new American League.

The Boston Patriots took advantage of their opponents' misplays and showed accurate passing and speedy backs in trouncing the Buffalo Bills at Buffalo, 28-7, Saturday.

Fullback Jack Spikes cracked over for two second-half touchdowns as the Dallas Texans defeated the Oakland Raiders, 20-13, at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco Sunday.

CAME CLOSE

East Lansing, Mich.—(NEA)—Ty Caplin, Michigan State golfer, was runner-up in the 1960 National Amateur Public Links Tournament in Honolulu.

LUCKY, BUT GOOD — Jim Gentile, slugging first baseman of the Baltimore Orioles, claims he's lucky because he stuck in the majors this season after seven seasons in minor. But he needed more than oversized shankrock to perform as he has so far.

Dodgers, Cardinals Winners

Giants Defeat Redlegs 6-2; Pirates Upended by Cubs 6-2

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants have come out of the fog and put a damper on predictions of their early elimination from the National League pennant scramble.

A revitalized pitching staff which has allowed only six runs in the last five games, all victories, has given the Giants new hope.

Although still in fifth place today, they are only 5 1/2 games behind Pittsburgh, the National League leader. The recall of slugger Willie McCovey and crack reliever Sherman Jones from the minors means they're still in the pennant-seeking business for 1960.

Sunday, the older of the Jones boys, Sad Sam, fashioned a neat two-hitter as San Francisco whipped Cincinnati 6-2 to sweep the three-game set.

The Pirates, upended by the Chicago Cubs for the second straight day 6-2, maintained their two-game lead over Milwaukee. The Braves dropped a 7-5 decision to the on-charging Los Angeles Dodgers. The fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals swept the only doubleheader on the senior circuit slate, 9-2 and 5-3 over Philadelphia.

Sad Sam made Cincinnati very unhappy, striking out 10 to post his 13th triumph. The veteran right-hander yielded only a two-run homer to Gus Bell in the first and a two-out single by Vada Pinson in the ninth.

The Giants broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fifth, scoring three times on singles by Willie Mays and Jim Marshall, a double by Orlando Cepeda, a wild pitch and an error. Mays wrenched his left ankle in the fifth and was replaced in the eighth. Bob Purkey (10-7) was the loser.

Veteran Grady Hatton paved the way for the Cubs' triumph over the Pirates. He broke a two-all tie with a two-run single in the seventh and Chicago collected two more runs, both unearned, in the same frame. Don Elston saved Don Cardwell's fifth triumph. Lefty Harvey Haddix (6-7) was the loser.

Don Drysdale won his sixth straight for the Dodgers who moved to within two games of Milwaukee and four of Pittsburgh. Ed Roebuck relieved in the ninth to protect Drysdale's 10th victory after the Dodgers had overcome the Braves' three-run uprising in the first with five tallies in the bottom half of the inning. Bob Lillis, filling in for ailing shortstop Maury Wills, delivered the starter Carl Willey (5-5).

The Cards, only 4 1/2 games behind the Pirates, used the productive bat of Bill White to double-up the Phillies. White drove in six runs with two homers.

Curt Simmons (3-1) and Ray Sadecki (5-5), both lefties, picked up the victories although Lindy McDaniel bailed out Sadecki in the ninth of the nightcap. Stan Musial, Joe Cunningham and Kenney Boyer also homered for the Cardinals.

WOODSMEN'S DAY

Tupper Lake, N. Y.—(NEA)—The Woodsmen's Field Days, competition for lumberjacks in the Adirondack Mountains, take place here, Aug. 11-13.

Stacey Wins Feature Race at Canfield

Nelson Stacy of Cincinnati continued his bid for a third successive MARC title by winning the 100-lap feature new car race at Canfield Speedway Saturday night before 4,126 fans.

Although the area was plagued with violent storms, only a slight sprinkle was felt at Canfield.

Paul Parks of Columbus suffered a bad break to let Stacy grab the victory. Parks was the front runner for 92 laps, but his car caught fire. Parks had to settle for 12th spot, while Stacy went on to win. Both drive 1960 Fords.

Billy Erhardt of Youngstown won the helmet dash, Newland won the heat dash, while Parks grabbed the checkered flag in the Australian pursuit. Paul Wensink of Deshler, Ohio, won the 2nd heat.

Dick Lawrence Wins A Flight Competition

Dick Lawrence captured the A flight competition in the Individual Match against par in the weekend event at the Salem Country Club.

Dick's score was five up against par. Second place in the flight was taken by Robert Wilson with four up, and third was a fourway tie with Ed Pukalski, Walter Deming, Steve Grubish, and Rudy Schuster, each with two up.

In the B Flight, Virg Lemley won with seven up. Jack Klein was second with three up, and Bill Gibson and Robert Pierson were third with one up.

Midland Splits In Exhibition Game Here

Midland Local 1212 split in two exhibition games played at Kelley Park Sunday afternoon.

Sam Ratkevich hurled both games for Midland. In the first, the stealers topped Deming's 7-2, but they lost the nightcap to Lincoln Machine 3-2.

If it hadn't been for nine Deming misuses, Midland would have been loser in both contests. Bill Ehrhart pitched six-hit ball and struck out seven. However, three errors, combined with a lead-off single gave Midland a three-run third after Mickey Sanfrey's bases-loaded single had earned Deming's 2-0 lead.

In the fifth, five more bobbles, a bunt and a single to left field iced the game for Midland. Ratkevich fanned 12 and had easy sailing except for the second inning.

In the following game, a walk, a hit batsman and Jim Cerasi's single gave Midland a first inning run. But in the last of the fifth, five hits, including Bill Odozizzi's double, and two errors pushed Lincoln in front 3-1.

After two were out in the seventh, Judge Guiler, Lincoln hurler, walked in a run to make the score, 3-2.

Guiler struck out 10 in notching the win.

Deitch to Enroll at Chapman College

Woody Deitch, former Salem High basketball star, will enroll as a freshman this fall at Chapman College in Orange, California.

Deitch, who in 1958-59 set an all-time Salem High single season scoring record of 461 points, was a second team All Ohio high school selection two years ago when he played for the state runnerup Quakers.

He attended Hiram College last year and was one of the leading scorers on the varsity squad before he was forced to drop out midway through the season because of scholastic difficulties.

Chapman College, which has an enrollment of approximately 2,000 students and is supported by the Christian Church, was the small college NCAA basketball champion last year. Deitch says he will have four years of basketball eligibility at Chapman, including a year of freshman ball this season.

225 Attend Ohio Beekeepers Meeting Here

Aparists from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Pennsylvania attended the Ohio State Beekeepers Association meeting Saturday and Sunday in Steelworkers Hall on Prospect St. More than 225 persons attended.

Another speaker was Chester Lewis of Akron, vice president. Others heard were John Root of Medina, Austin Ezzel and Dr. Winston Dunham of Ohio State University, George Redman of North Baltimore, Jack Deyell of Medina, and Dr. E. J. Anderson of Pennsylvania State University, and Eldon R. Groves of Salem.

County Commissioner Max Gard of Lisbon was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

In discussing the merchandising of honey, it was pointed out that good color blending in packaging is to be desired.

The bee itself can distinguish four colors but it is the bee's keen sense of smell rather than sight that attracts it to flowers and other plants, it was pointed out. Columbiana County has nearly 200 beekeepers, averaging from 8 to 10 hives each, according to Don Myers of the county agriculture extension office.

Air Search Made By CAP Squadron

Salem Squadron 302, Civil Air Patrol, successfully completed an air search training mission over the weekend. It encompassed the state of Ohio.

The squadron was assigned an area in northeastern Ohio to locate a target set out by the United States Air Force teams. The target was located from the air about 25 miles south of Sandusky early Sunday afternoon.

Scattered thunderstorms Saturday afternoon made the search by local aircraft extremely difficult. However, clearing weather on Sunday expedited the search.

The squadron cadets were assigned duties of communication and fire protection and they performed an important part of the weekend mission. The Salem squadron was supported by other squadrons in Group Three and by groups under the Wing Command in Cincinnati.

These training missions maintain CAP squadrons at a constant readiness for civilian and military aircraft at a moment's notice, explained Capt. Paul Howard.

The statement from the Mid-Westerners charged that Nixon up to now has "wholeheartedly subscribed" to Benson's farm policies but in a sudden switch has repudiated him.

"Those in the farm belt are acutely aware of the failures of the Republican policy on agriculture, a policy to which Vice President Nixon has wholeheartedly subscribed until yesterday," the statement said.

It quoted Nixon as having said in a 1954 speech in Des Moines, Iowa, that history would record Benson as "one of the best secretaries of agriculture in our history" and as a friend of the farmer.

It said he also spoke out in support and praise of Benson in Rapid City, S.D., in 1956, and quoted Benson himself as claiming in 1957 that he had "every evidence of the support of the vice president."

The statement was released through Kennedy's press office. Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, in reply to a question, said the statement was drafted "by people connected with the Kennedy campaign," and then submitted to the five governors and three senators for their approval, and signatures.

Salinger said Kennedy had invited Gov. Loveless to come here Thursday for talks on farm policy. Kennedy declined to comment on reports Loveless might become secretary of agriculture if Kennedy is elected president.

rights platform pledges adopted at their conventions.

The New Yorker said he would like to have a Democratic senator join him as sponsor of legislation "to demonstrate the spirit of bipartisan cooperation which must exist from the very beginning if meaningful civil rights bills are to pass the Senate."

Javits said these four recommendations in the GOP platform require legislative action:

1. A provision that completion of six primary grades in state accredited schools is conclusive evidence by literacy for voting purposes.

2. Authority for the attorney general to bring civil rights suits on behalf of individuals who charge denial of constitutional rights, including the right to attend a non-segregated public school.

3. Establishment of a federal commission on equal job opportunity.

4. Modification of the Senate rule which Javits said "permits the filibuster and the threat of filibuster to frustrate the passage of meaningful civil rights bills."

The beach was the scene of a rebel attack in 1958. No one was injured then. Shortly after that attack the military authorities closed the coastal area.

In the last year, French military operations had almost eliminated rebel activity and this summer bathers returned.

A week ago the French army launched a massive cleanup of rebel strongholds in the rugged mountain region 100 miles south of the Chenoua region. Some sources in Algiers speculated rebel units fleeing the French army may have attacked the beach.
